Plumber Exemption (SB 687) vs. Level D Certification as a Well Contractor
Guide for Pump Installers

	SB 687 Plumber Exemption	Level D Certification as a Well Contractor
Requirements:	Licensed Plumber (actual licensed plumber, not sub-licensee) (Class 1- Unlimited, Class II- Limited) 2 years experience pass 250-question open-book exam annual renewal: $125 renewal fee 6 hours Continuing Education for exemption, also need continuing education relating to well seals & disinfection, to be taken within 2 years prior to performing the well contractor activity. Plumber must maintain this documentation. Must be present on site while the well contractor activities are being performed.	Level D certified well contractor 6 months experience pass 50-question open book exam annual renewal: $100 renewal fee 6 hours continuing education Must be present on site while the well contractor activities are being performed.
Activities Allowed:	Breaking/Installing well seal & well disinfection for the purpose of installation, replacement or repair of a well pump or pumping equipment within or near the well. would cover initial disinfection when well pump installed, but not subsequent disinfections needed from any bad water samples.	Breaking/Installing well seal & well disinfection. (no limit by purpose) …can be relating to down-hole camera work …can disinfect as part of routine well maintanance …can disinfect well as part of home sale requirements …water system operator would use to disinfect well water supply ...can install well seal & disinfect on newly constructed well …can change out a well pump and disinfect the well …can disinfect a well after bad water sample results ...etc.
Advertising Opportunities:	Licensed by the State to work on household plumbing	Licensed by the State to work on wells

Revised 5/2011