Exam Policy

- The references from NGWA used in creating the exam may be used by applicants during the exam. However, no other references including older versions of the exam references, may be allowed into the exam site. The State rule references used in creating the exam will be provided on-site for reference by applicants.

- References used by applicants must be in "as received" condition and may not contain extra writing, highlighting, tabs or any other markings not original to the reference. References with any of these extra markings will not be admissible into the exam site.

- A grade on the examination of 70 percent or higher is required to pass.

- Applicants shall be notified of exam results in writing- pass or fail. Exam scores are not given out.

- Applicants that fail an exam and have scheduled to retake the exam, may request an "exam review" within 60 days of the failed exam. Exam reviews are free of charge. An Exam review shall not be scheduled during the same week as an exam. Exam review dates and the exam review request form, WCC-17, is available online at www.wellcontractors.nc.gov

- Use of altered references or writing in/altering exam references during the exam by applicants shall be considered cheating. The applicant will be asked to leave, the exam will not be counted, the exam fee shall not be refunded.
